GAME ON

It's all fun and games this summer as born-and-bred Southamptonite and designer Gwendolyn McGee introduces The Beach Board, the ultimate coastal competition to elevate every beach day. Let the ocean breeze inspire your strategic moves—the beachside backgammon board is placed on a vibrant terry towel made in Portugal, complemented by die and wooden game pieces. Enjoy the ease of play without the risk of being displaced by the wind, ensuring the game retains its classic appeal in a contemporary and transportable form. gmcgee.shop

MAKING WAVES

Artist, photographer and waterman Paul Brooke displays his love for the ocean, design and craftsmanship in his latest exhibition, Out of Montauk, at the Beach House and Second House Museum in Montauk. The exhibition features life-size cyanotypes, a method that employs ultraviolet contact printing to capture images of marine species. Each piece is a singular creation, capturing the essence of marine species in the Atlantic Ocean by Montauk Point. The artwork serves as a visual feast and a narrative on environmental and ecological concerns, reflecting on the impact of overfishing and climate change on these marine inhabitants. *The Montauk Beach House, 55 S. Take a Seat

In an engaging blend of contemporary design and natural beauty, Italian furniture brand Paola Lenti celebrates 30 years of furniture design by showcasing over 100 pieces of outdoor furniture at LongHouse Reserve this summer. This collaboration highlights a curated selection of armchairs, sofas, poufs, tables and parasol umbrellas throughout the 16-acre garden, designed to complement the existing dialogue between art, history and nature. 133 Hands Creek Road, East Hampton, longhouse.org; paolalenti.it
